HOUSE CLASH
OPENS DEBATE ON WAR ISSUE

Argument Over Committee Jurisdiction Is First Battle Point

WILLKIE FAVORS AID FOR BRITAIN

Urges Modifications, However, To President's Legislation

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The administration today won the first congressional skirmish over its lend-lease bill for aiding Britain when the house upheld procedure charted by the leadership for rushing consideration of the measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A tense congress braced itself today for the initial skirmish over the controversial lend-lease bill, which received support from Wendell L. Willkie amid opposition efforts to curtail its scope.

As a prelude to momentous debates, the house was involved in an argument over committee jurisdiction. The military committee sought to take supervision of the bill away from the foreign affairs committee, but indications were that the house would reject the challenge.

In that event, public hearings on the program to lend or lease American-made military equipment to warring "democracies" could be started tomorrow.

Urges Modification
Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, announced in New York that he favored the bill "with modification." He said that the nation faced an emergency under which "extraordinary powers must be granted to the elected executive," but he declared that the powers should be limited to "a fixed term, not too far in the future." Willkie disclosed that he would fly to England within two weeks to survey the war situation.

His statement brought a comment from Alf M. Landon in Topeka, Kan., that "Mr. Willkie had revealed that he was in position before the Republican national convention he would not have been nominated."

Willkie and President Roosevelt hold essentially the same position. Landon asserted, adding, "that is, we must get into the war if necessary to help England win."

Willkie's suggestion for setting a time limit on the British aid bill found backing among Republican senate leaders, who advocated a two-year period. Their proposed amendment was one of a host being drafted by members of both branches of congress.

Security Is Asked
Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee, who said he "unqualifiedly" approved the measure's objectives, predicted Mr. Roosevelt would favor an amendment specifying that foreign beneficiaries provide "reasonable security" in the form of goods needed by the United States such as tin and rubber.

As in the days before congress rewrote the neutrality act to per-

CITY'S FIRE LOSS
BOOSTED IN 1940

$18,189 Is Reported For Year; Total Valuation Set at $361,750

Salem's fire loss for 1940 was almost six times greater than in 1939, Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy's annual report showed today. The loss for '39, however, was the lowest in the history of the department.

Total fire loss for the past year was reported by the chief as $18,189.46, compared with the 1939 figure of $3,133.47. Firemen answered 127 fires last year and 124 the previous year.

Of last year's fire loss, $11,245.21 was to buildings and $6,944.25 to contents. Although the loss totaled $18,189.46, the total valuation of buildings and contents endangered by flames was estimated at $361,750. The firemen responded to 16 calls outside the city during 1940. In fighting the year's 127 fires, firemen used 15 gallons of chemicals, laid 6,890 feet of booster line and 6,200 feet of two and one-half inch hose.

The distance the trucks traveled totaled 222.3 miles, Chief Malloy said.

SCHOOLS HIT HARD
BY FLU OUTBREAK

HAMILTON, Jan. 13.—Supt. C. W. White announced today that 1,136 pupils, about 13 per cent of the city's total, were absent from school because of influenza.

White said a decision would be made tomorrow on whether to close the schools.

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 13.—With nine teachers, 974 pupils and three members of the board of education ill with influenza, Cambridge public schools were closed today for a week.

The influenza outbreak also prompted closing of the Yorkville schools. Last week schools in Delaware, Scioto and Logan counties were closed temporarily.

ALLIANCE, Jan. 13.—Automobile dealers are finding city hall here "rich picking" for new cars.

BUNFIELD GIVEN

Prisoner Bitter at Woman He Wounded; Calls Her "Home Wrecker"

LISBON, Jan. 13.—James Bunfield, 45, of East Liverpool, bitter at a woman whom he charged with wrecking his home, waived jury trial this morning and was sentenced by Judge Joel H. Sharp to serve from one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty to an indictment charging him with "shooting with intent to wound and kill."

Mrs. Sylvia Anderson, 45, whom Bunfield is accused of having shot and wounded at her home in East End, East Liverpool, last November, was led from the courtroom after it was announced by defense attorneys that a jury trial would be waived.

Mrs. Anderson, who was to have appeared as a witness in the trial, had recovered sufficiently to ascend the courthouse steps although her lawyer said the bullet, fired by Bunfield, had never been removed from her head.

Verbally Assaults Woman

Before Common Pleas Judge Sharp had heard the defendant's plea, he asked Bunfield if he had anything to say. Whereupon the prisoner answered: "I want to thank you for sending me to the pen, but that woman should be prosecuted instead of me." Bunfield charged that his was the ninth home she had wrecked.

Before being led away, Bunfield leaned over to his wife, sitting in the front of the courtroom, and spoke to her, urging her to have charges filed against Mrs. Anderson.

Orphanage Lass, Only 6,

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13.—The fairy queen touched Cinderella with her wand.

So today, six-year-old Arlene Jackson, who has never seen a movie, becomes a movie actress.

Last week Arlene was playing in a children's home while her mother worked all day at a factory. Today she has a private dressing room, a stand-in, a wardrobe mistress and a hair-dresser. Most important, she has an income of $25 a day.

It all started when Director Geo. Stevens, trying to cast a child for an orphan's part, remarked after two days of interviews:

"I'm sick and tired of affected Hollywood brats. Let's go hunting for someone new."

Where better, reasoned Stevens, could he find a child to play an orphan's role than in an orphanage?

"Do you know any recitations?" Stevens inquired as Arlene was brought in.

"I know the story of the Three Wise Men," she replied, and for several minutes the director and the writer listened as she told it, without once hesitating.

"She's the one," said Martha Cheavens, author of the screen play, as Arlene finished. Stevens agreed.

IL DUCE SHAKES UP ALBANIAN COMMAND

Gen. Cavallero, New Chief of Staff, Is Dispatched To War Zone

(By Associated Press)
German troops in trenches along the Nazi-occupied French and Belgian coasts—presumably awaiting Adolf Hitler's signal to invade England—were reported today to have been machine-gunned by British warplanes in low-flying attacks, while other RAF raiders bombed Nazi U-boat bases and pounded the Italian cities of Venice, Turin and Catania.

Amid reported new reverses in the war with Greece, Premier Mussolini shook up his army command for the third time in two months, dispatching his chief of staff, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, to take charge of Italy's hard-hat armies in Albania.

Aided After World War
General Cavallero, who helped Mussolini take over the Italian military machine in 1925, was credited with having played a major role in reorganizing Italian defenses after the Caporetto disaster in the World War. He succeeds Gen. Ubaldo Soddu, who was sent to command the Albanian campaign in the shake-up of Nov. 10. Cavallero replaced Marshal Pietro Badoglio as Fascist chief of staff Dec. 6.

Authoritative London quarters said the RAF's daylight gunning attack on Nazi troops, entrenched near the beach along the channel coast, was part of campaign to drive German defenses back from the channel.

It was the RAF's fourth straight daylight attack on the Germans—highlighted by Friday's spectacular machine-gunning raid on German airdromes over 1,000 square miles of northern France.

The London air ministry also reported RAF bombing attacks overnight on oil targets in Germany, Italy and Belgium, including a low-flying smash at refineries in Porto Marghera, near Venice, Italy, and Regensburg, in the Reich, and Oostend, Belgium.

"Anti-aircraft defenses first were silenced by machine-gun fire from a few hundred feet," the air ministry's communique said, describing the attack on Porto Marghera.

War Climax Not Far Away,
Opinion Of British Expert

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Developments over the weekend tend to support the assertion of British Minister of Economic Warfare Dalton that the war will reach a climax in the "next few weeks," perhaps in the next few hours, a point which this column has been emphasizing for some time now.

Herr Hitler's projected invasion of England undoubtedly has been the subject of the destructive argument between Nazi and British bombers. The nature of the objectives upon which they have been unloading their freight of hate lend substance to that view.

For Hitler the operations represent the necessary preparation for the actual attempt to land troops.

For the British it is a question of stopping the invasion before it starts, by destroying transports and supplies accumulated for the assault.

That the German dictator should be looking for an opening at this unfavorable time of year is indication of the urgency of the matter from his standpoint. Flying conditions are bad and the English channel is a race-day of peril for the transportation of hundreds of thousands of sea-sick troops and their mountainous equipment and supplies.

The fuhrer is spurred to take extreme chances by the determination of the United States administration to go all-out in aid for Britain. He is rushing against time in an effort to crush England before American help and her own resources give her sufficient strength to stand up against the might of the German war machine.

He will be lucky if fortune gives him a maximum of six months. Every day now is a golden one, for the turn of the war probably isn't farther away than that.

For the past two nights the Germans have been pouring hell into London again. The point of that is two-fold: It is a continuation of the effort to break civilian morale; it is calculated to put this control-center of the country out of action before an attempt at invasion.

The answer of the Royal Air Force has been to slash savagely at the so-called invasion ports, from Norway down to Brest on the French coast.

Yet, I think we may take it that Hitler is getting ready to strike. This isn't to say that the attempt at invasion of England necessarily will come first. He has alternative projects, and is an opportunist.

However, one thing still remains certain—England is the chief objective.

Locomotive Is Derailed In Salineville Wreck

Pulled off the tracks as a derailed box car of a passing freight train sideswiped one of its own string of cars, this Pennsylvania railroad locomotive landed on its side in a ditch near Salineville Saturday evening. Its fireman, John Carpenter, 42, of Cambridge, died later in the East Liverpool City hospital of scalds.

FIREMAN KILLED
IN FREIGHT CRASH
NEAR SALINEVILLE

Locomotive Is Derailed, Thrown Over On Its Side In Ditch

One railroad man died and another was injured as a result of a collision between two freight trains on the Pennsylvania railroad between Salineville and Summitville at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

John Carpenter, 42, of Cambridge, fireman on a westbound train, died at 11:30 p. m. Saturday in the East Liverpool City hospital of scalds, while Herschel Salzer, 58, engineer of Canton, was treated for bruises at the hospital and discharged.

A 100-car train, eastbound, was on the down grade between Summitville and Salineville when one of the box cars, about eighth from the locomotive, jumped the track at a crossing, although the coupling held.

A moment later a westbound freight train began to pass. The derailed car struck cars of the westbound train. Two of its cars were derailed and they pulled the locomotive off the rails and it went over onto its side in a ditch.

Engineer Salzer saw what was happening and called to Fireman Carpenter to jump. Salzer jumped out onto the bank but Carpenter failed to make it.

The engine crew of the eastbound train tied down the locomotive whistle to summon help. A short time later Allen Allmon, who lives two miles away from the tracks, heard the signal, summoned two neighbors, Carl and Lewright Harris, and drove to the crash scene. They found Fireman Carpenter near the cab of the overturned engine, called an ambulance and he was taken to the E. Liverpool hospital.

Neither DeMichael nor John Gallo, Jr., 33, of Phillipsburg, Pa., operator of the other machine, was injured. The women were removed to the Alliance City hospital.

Among the motorists arrested were:
Delbert A. Simon, R. D. 1, Salem, charged with driving a car with fictitious plates, fined $50 and costs by Mayor Norman Phillips.

Orvil H. Knisley of Beloit, Robert Hinton of 225 Penn. ave., and Leland Stanford of East Liverpool, each fined $10 and costs by Mayor Phillips after pleading guilty to charges of reckless driving.

Michael T. Horne of Youngstown, arrested on a charge of failure to observe a stop sign, fined $5 and costs by Mayor George Wilson at Canfield.

School Semester
To End On Jan. 24

The first semester of the 1940-41 school term will end at Salem High school on Friday, Jan. 24, with the second semester commencing Jan. 27. Report cards will go out on Jan. 29, it is announced by Principal H. M. Williams.

Three assembly programs remain on the current semester calendar. Dr. Karl Onderdonk of Buffalo, N. Y., will speak at the school next Thursday, while on Jan. 23 Dr. Alen Stockdale of New York City, a representative of the National Manufacturers' association, will address the students. Dr. Stockdale will be speaking here in connection with the Business Bureau's program during the Farmers' institute.

A school assembly speaker on Jan. 24 will be Captain Theodore Stern, who will discuss "Crime Detection."

Young People Are Warned
Of Fake School Courses

Salem boys and girls were warned today to be on the lookout for high-pressure salesmen of irreputable and sometimes non-existent correspondence schools who have been canvassing the district.

The warning comes from Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr and Holland Cameron, Trades Class coordinator, who explained that several girls recently had made initial payments for a correspondence course and then failed to hear further from the apparently "phony" companies.

They urge that individuals investigate thoroughly a correspondence school before enrolling.

State Executive, Inaugurated at Noon, Starts His Second Term

STRICT ECONOMY TO BE WATCHWORD

Referring to Soldiers, He Asks Folks at Home to Sacrifice, Also

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 13.—Before a crowd that packed the tradition-hallowed state house rotunda, Gov. John W. Bricker today gave his oath to administer faithfully state affairs for two more years and asked every citizen and public official to dedicate themselves unselfishly to a new appreciation of democracy.

Five hundred seats were set-up before the temporary platform, which blocked the west entrance to the rotunda, but Highway Patrolman J. H. Gardner estimated more than 3,500 persons crowded into the small area for the high noon inaugural of Bricker and all state officials.

Begins Second Term
Starting a second term—the first Republican in 39 years to win reelection—Bricker became Ohio's 69th chief executive in a simple but colorful ceremony.

Referring to Ohio soldiers now in training as part of the nation's expanded military program, Bricker declared in his inaugural address "let their sacrifices be met by an equal unselfish devotion to duty at home."

"I call upon every citizen of the state to give not alone of his money to his government, but of his time and ability," added Bricker, who pleaded for strict economy in government operations.

Bricker said, in his prepared inaugural address:

"We are in the midst of the building of a defense program such as this country has never seen in peacetime or wartime. The taxes the Americans will have to pay in the years immediately ahead will be without precedent in this country. It will be a test of patriotism and devotion of the citizens of America to their government."

"Therefore we must save money here in Ohio's government and in the political subdivisions of the state that the taxes on the people of Ohio will not become too burdensome and the blessings of free government not overbalanced by its cost."

In this day of more money we must pay by debts and build, strong against the day of reaction which we must inevitably meet. It is no time for waste or extravagance.

Equal Their Sacrifices
"Our soldiers serve on meager pay at camp. Let their sacrifices be met by an equal unselfish devotion to duty at home. Industry must respond and labor must accept its responsibility."

"I plead for a new appreciation of the spiritual values which we can have by preserving America free and undivided. In this dark hour in the world's history I plead particularly for a new appreciation of the American way of life and living."

Chosen by the greatest majority ever given an Ohio governor and the first Republican in 39 years to win a second term, Bricker was inaugurated with other state officials amid colorful ceremonies in the historic state house rotunda.

Sketching his program for the next two years, Bricker said:

"Let me pledge to the people of Ohio a continuance of honest government; of economy in government; a program of no new taxes and no increased taxes; a continuance of the payment of debts which we inherited; and the beginning of a building program which now for 10 years has been neglected, so that Ohio might again proudly say that we are taking care of the needs of our people."

SITTING ON THE BULGE

The problem of economic stability, sagely agreed befuddled economists during the late depression, can be solved by sitting on the bulge and boosting the sagging places in the business charts. This was as profound as saying a sick man can be made well by erasing the fluctuations in his temperature chart.

Nevertheless, there was a profound idea in the background—the thought that if societies were better organized they might be able to control the circumstances that led, in the past, to uncontrollable inflation and deflation. Thus, to boost the sagging places in the business charts caused by too much deflation, there would be public work projects, now standard in all countries. To sit on the bulge caused by too much inflation there would be—well, it was hard to say but something. That was a bridge to be crossed when it was reached.

The bridge now has been reached. In his message transmitting the budget, President Roosevelt spoke of continuous planning for public works to prepare a backlog of projects for the future. Walter Lippmann, who does some of the original thinking for the country, has advised labor to invest its extra earnings during the defense boom in government bonds to prevent the inflation and rising prices that inevitably would be caused by a sudden increase in demand for articles that must be produced in competition with defense items. Tax plans already in existence, as well as public policy, are directed against war profiteering. The chairman of the federal reserve system a few days ago incurred the wrath of the secretary of the treasury by proposing an increase in interest rates and removal of executive authority to revalue the dollar—both steps to be taken in order to stabilize business trends. It may be too little and too late, but current thought is concerned directly with averting another breath-taking series of ups and downs on the business chart.

BEST SOLUTION

It was the expressed as well as the implied hope that Sidney Hillman's presence in the front row of civilian authorities looking after national defense production would keep labor pacified. The hope is not materializing as well as might be expected. Perhaps Mr. Hillman's resources haven't been brought into play yet. He may do better later.

Obviously, some congressmen are fairly itching to curb labor's cherished right to strike at the expense of defense production. If provoked far enough, undoubtedly they would try to do it. Organized labor must never forget that government gained tremendous power over it when the conscription bill was passed. The classic formula for handling defense strikes was developed by Winston Churchill a quarter of a century ago when he gave strikers in munitions works a choice between going back to work or going into the army.

The best solution, of course, is for organized labor's leaders to concede that strikes which imperil national security are against the public interest and should not be condoned, except in the most extreme cases after all possibilities of arbitration have been exhausted. Labor does not want to see its right to strike abridged, and for the most part legislators do not want to take such a momentous step. The democratic way would be an agreement to avert the joining of a touchy issue.

Certainly no union workman or union leader could object to the proposal that a "waiting period" be required after a strike vote is taken, to permit "temper to cool." Such a restriction would be the best guarantee against strikes fomented for reasons having nothing to do with bona fide unionism, a danger labor unions must deal with as realistically in wartime as they expect their governments to deal with all subversive influences.

PINCERS DE LUXE

As all eyes now know from reading the newspapers, German military strategy depends heavily on the pincers movement. The enemy is out-flanked on both extremities, like a sweeping end run in football.

Consequently, for tires, the most exciting news in many a day is the report from London that the result of British victories in Libya and Greek victories in Albania may be an Allied invasion of Italy. Purpose of this bold strategy would be to set up a pincers movement against Germany; Great Britain then would be in theoretical position to attack on two fronts, if and when it could conduct an offensive. Immediate effect, moreover, would be to cause Hitler to withdraw some of his invasion strength for protection of Germany's vulnerable southern frontier.

The story behind the story is better yet. In the World war, the most brilliant piece of strategy devised was Winston Churchill's plan to force the Dardanelles, thereby forcing a clear passage through the Black sea to Russia. Conceived as a naval maneuver, the plan needed a large-scale land operation to make it successful. But cooperation was not forthcoming failure discredited Churchill, almost ruined his career. Today, the same man is prime minister. If he prepares a plan for action in the southeast again, there will be no lack of cooperation this time.

CONFIDENCE IN COLUMBUS

At the outset of Gov. Bricker's second term, first time since 1838 that a Republican governor of Ohio has succeeded himself, note should be made of the unusual confidence at present in the way things are being administered in Columbus.

For the first time in a number of years, state government virtually has dropped out of the picture as a topic of discussion. It is assumed that in the absence of word to the contrary, the job is being done the way taxpayers want it done.

Gov. Bricker will begin his second term with the record of a good first term to set the pace. Despite the Davey system of arithmetic, which was repudiated once and for all at the polls last November, Ohio's financial affairs have been handled soundly during the last two years.

No doubt Gov. Bricker has made his share of mistakes, but he differs conspicuously from his predecessor in not being proud of them, whatever they are. In fact, remembering Davey, most Ohioans only can wonder what they ever did to deserve a lucky break like the Bricker administration. Be it to their everlasting credit that they recognized a good thing when they had it and gave a good governor two more years in office.

EXCEPTIONAL activity, with affairs reaching high pressure and excitement is presaged from the predominant configurations. It may be well to hold the energies and emotions from being carried away, to the detriment of important interests of a new order. Also be alert to deception, fraud and intrigues of a sinister influence, with litigation or extravagant outlay of funds as aftermath. There is a sign that should signify outstanding talents of a unique order to be developed under this prospect.

Those whose birthday it is may find fresh and important projects moving along at high tempo. But this trend should not be over aggressive or carried away by pressure or excitement. Certain dangers may arise from intrigue, undercover duplicity, with fraud the intent. Extravagance and litigation may be involved. Seek out your unique talents for expression.

A child born on this day may be aggressive, indomitable, brave and ambitious, talented in some unusual form. Although being subject to reversals and treachery, it should be moderately successful.

We're beginning to recognize the importance of vitamins, but without always knowing just where to find them. Of course, one thing is clear—we can't eat our vitamins and have them.

ON BEING SICK AT HOME

The Doctor Is the Patient and Has Lots of Fun

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
Last spring your columnist was laid up for a day or two with a bad ankle in a New York hotel and sent to a supply house that rented invalid equipment for a cradle to put under the bed-clothes and protect the foot. When it arrived we were somewhat chagrined to find that according to the label on the package it came from "The Aged Invalids Supply Co." a designation that raised much laughter on the part of the party of the second part. Put on glancing in the mirror on the dresser, we decided that probably the cradle had come from the right place.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The convenience of the arrangement deserves a word of praise. We did not want to go to the hospital just so we could get the use of the cradle, so the cradle was brought to us. The cost was $15 a month. The advantage was that we did not have to go to a hospital, and did not have to have breakfast in the cold grey dawn at 6:30 and the last meal of the day at 4:30 in the afternoon. Furthermore, the meals were not like hospital meals—all the same temperature, at the hotel the food that was supposed to be hot was hot, and the food that was supposed to be cold was cold.

The habit of going to a hospital for every little sickness is one of the strangest developments of modern times. Not long ago I suggested that a very sick, dying old man be taken to the hospital. But his wife said that there was a motto of her father's, "Born at home, die at home" and she was going to stick to it. This idea of going to a hospital to have a baby get me.

But, somebody says, all the proper conveniences are at the hospital. Well, you can rent them at home from a sick room supply company.

From these, you can rent hospital beds and mattresses, over-bed tables, nightgowns that button up the back, bed pans, fracture beds, and fracture cradles. Even Bradford frames and pulley beds for difficult fracture cases! Wheel chairs, of all kinds, wheel stretchers, invalid walkers (used to teach convalescents to walk), back rests, infra-red lamps, mercury quartz ultra-violet lamps, short wave diathermy sets, inhalators, baby scales, rubber air rings, crutches, canes, china, glassware, knives and forks and, in fact, anything. A very sensible idea. You're not going to be sick all your life, you know. Your baby needs to be weighed only while it's a baby. Why not rent what you need?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. T.—Will you please answer through your column if thyroid tablets would make a person thin or fat? I have been taking them and seem to be getting fat.

A.—No one should take thyroid tablets except under the advice of a physician. They are liable to do strange things although usually they tend to make people thin. But they are dangerous to take.

BEWARE NOW OF EPIDEMIC COLDS!

Here's Some Good Time-Tested Advice

With folks all around suffering with contagious colds, be just as careful as you can—and you may avoid a lot of sickness, trouble and worry.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Beware of wet feet and drafts. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF A SNIFGLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION... put a few drops of Vicks VapoRub up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because VapoRub is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of VapoRub helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve misery. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warm cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both VapoRub and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks VapoRub and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today.

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

FOR many a year your taste and your tongue told you there was something distinctive about Camels... something you just couldn't seem to find in any other cigarette.

Then scientific research told you Camels were slower-burning. You learned that this slower way of burning meant more mildness, more coolness, and more flavor in the smoke.

Now, new tests—impartial laboratory tests of the smoke itself—confirm still another advantage of Camels' slower burning: Less nicotine in the smoke. Less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested—28% less than the average!

And when independent laboratory tests reveal such a distinct advantage for one brand of cigarettes over all the others tested—that's worth your looking into—right now!

Try the slower-burning cigarette... try Camels. Compare them... compare them by smoking them. The smoke's the thing!

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

CAMEL — THE SLOWER-BURNING CIGARETTE

"TRIAL WITHOUT JURY"

By JAMES RONALD

CHAPTER THIRTY

The following morning, Michael Osborne showed a suitcase into his car and started off, his small mother looking after him until he was far out of sight; then she went to her room and remained there for a long time. When she came down, her eyes were sunk in hollows, but there was a smile on her lips. Someone had to smile to keep up the family morale; and that someone had to be Edith.

A few days later, a reply came to a letter Edith had written to a cousin living a hundred miles away, who wrote that he had decided it was his duty to have the two youngest of "her unfortunate family" to stay with him for a month or so. Peter and Marjory left by train that afternoon, in a state of growing excitement at the prospect of a holiday away from what had been the hateful village of Lake-

Edith suggested that sufficient funds might be spared to send Dor-

And leave you and Dad to fight it out alone," cried Ann. "We wouldn't dream of it."

"Our place is with you, Mother," said Dorothy quietly.

"But I should feel happier if you were away from it all," retorted Ann, kissing her mother. "So that's that!"

No one ever knew what the ensuing week meant to Edith. Never before had she been separated from any of her children for so much as a single night.

And then a wire from her cousin placed the depleted household into a state of nervous anxiety. It read:

"CHILDREN MISSING. THEIR BEDS NOT OCCUPIED LAST NIGHT. HAVE CONSULTED POLICE. NO ACCIDENT REPORTED. DILIGENT SEARCH STARTED."

When the flurry created by the telegram was at its height, Peter and Marjory walked in, grimy and hungry, but in the best of spirits. The previous evening, when the rest of the cousin's household was asleep, they packed their things and stealthily crept out of the house. A friendly truck driver, bound for Broadway, had come out of his way to tow them home.

"We've never had such a terrible time before in all our lives," declared little Marjory. "I hate to say it about your relatives, Mother, but they were awful. They kept trying to make us tell them all about the murder."

"They would roll their eyes and say: 'Dear, dear, what a shocking calamity!'" added Peter. "But they loved hearing about it just the same. They kept talking about poor, poor Aunt Octavia."

"I told them you wanted us to forget about Aunt Octavia," said Marjory, "and they said you weren't bringing us up properly."

The following evening, when the family was at supper, Michael came home. He put his roadster in the shed, dumped his suitcase in the kitchen, slipped Hannah on the back, strode into the dining-room, and dropped casually into a chair. "Hello, Mother," he said. "Hello, Dad!"

For a moment his swagger deserted him and he had rather a touching small-boy air.

"Gosh," he exclaimed, "it's good to be home again!"

Stephen held out his hand across the table.

"It's good to have you home again, son."

They shook hands solemnly; and then Michael grinned up at Hannah who was coming into the room with a laden tray.

"Hurry up, Hannah. I'm starving!"

That night he sat on the end of Ann's bed and talked for half an hour with hardly a pause for breath.

On his second day away from home he found a job as helper in a garage. He had given his name as Jimmy Milligan and told the proprietor that he was an orphan. A first he had been fairly happy, although he had missed everyone at home like blazes — "even you, old Funny Face!" — and, Lord, what a relief it had been to be no one in particular once more!

To walk down the street and not have the ghastly feeling that people were craning their necks to look at you! To be treated naturally, easily, like a normal human being, instead of a freak in a show. Yes, there had been a lot of advantages to being Jimmy Milligan, orphaned garage hand.

"But this morning a fellow drove in and, while I was under his car, I heard him talking with the boss about the Osborne Case. I kept telling myself that the Osborne Case was no concern of mine, that I was Jimmy Milligan and didn't care a hang what anyone said about it. But it didn't work. I was all ears. My face felt red. I couldn't help it."

And then the fellow said: "As a matter of fact, I understand the police are satisfied that Stephen Osborne did it, but they can't produce sufficient evidence to satisfy a jury, so they are delaying the trial and hoping that fresh evidence will turn up."

"When I heard that I was all turned up. I slid out from under the car and stood up."

"I am Michael Osborne," I said, "and Stephen Osborne is my father. And you—you're a liar!"

"With that, I punched him on the nose."

Ann clapped her hands. "Good for you, Mike! What did he do then?"

"For a second I thought he was going to hit me back; and he could have killed me with one punch. Gosh, he looked as big as Carnegie! But I didn't care. I wanted him to hit me. I didn't care if he killed me."

"But he didn't. He stood looking at me for a while, rubbing his nose, and then said, 'You're all right, Sonny. I was just shootin' off my mouth. I'm sorry.'"

"That's all right," I said. And we shook hands.

"It was then I realized that I'd let the family down by running away and changing my name. I went across to the corner of the garage where my jalopy was standing, started her up—and headed for home."

With hands that trembled slightly, Stephen Osborne filled the blackened bowl of a favorite briar and fumbled for matches in the pockets of his shabby tweed jacket. He was frowning as he strolled down a winding path to his rose garden. He stood staring at the last blossoms of the season for some minutes, his forehead wrinkled, his teeth clamped tightly on the chewed mouthpiece of the pipe, his thoughts far away; and then from an inside pocket he drew a letter which had come in the morning post, and read it for the third time. It was from a law firm in New York, and was headed:

Re: Miss Octavia Osborne's Trust. Dear Sir,—

As we informed you in our letter of August 30th of which we have not yet received an acknowledgment, you and your five children are the residuary legatees under a will made by your sister in May, 1924; which is, to the best of our knowledge, Miss Osborne's last will and testament. Under the terms of the will the entire estate, with the exception of a few minor bequests, is to be held in trust on your behalf during your lifetime and you are to receive the income from it. After your death the capital is to be divided equally among your children, on their attaining 25 years of age. While we are not yet in a position to provide you with an exact statement, it is probable that the residue will be in the region of eight hundred thousand dollars.

We regret that there is little likelihood of the estate being settled in the near future, since the deceased affairs are unusually involved.

Yours truly, Parfitt, Makin & Parfitt

Stephen had tried not to think of what his sister's death would mean to him financially. Edith and he had not discussed it. They had studiously avoided the subject, fearing that the barest mention of it would invoke the specter of the murdered—to all appearances—to prevent her leaving the money to charity; and to talk about the money was to bring up the question Stephen and his wife were trying to ignore; the question that haunted them, nevertheless, every waking hour; the awful question of the identity of the murderer.

It was not surprising that a previous letter from the lawyers had gone unanswered, Stephen had not received it. During August and early September, scurrilous anonymous communications had been coming in their hundreds by every mail, and after the shock of reading a few of the initial batch, Edith had burned most of each day's correspondence unopened.

It was the last sentence of the letter that caused Stephen to frown and chew nervously on the stem of his pipe. "...there is little likelihood of the estate being settled in the near future, since the deceased's affairs are unusually involved..."

Having known Octavia, Stephen could not swallow that explanation. Octavia's affairs involved? Impossible! Her judgment had been shrewd, her business sense admirable, her love of order almost a mania. No, in death her affairs would be as orderly as her prim person had been in life.

There was another reason for the delay; and Stephen did not need to be told what it was. The lawyers were stalling for time. They were waiting to see whether the police would take the first step toward eliminating Stephen from the position of heir to his sister's fortune by arresting him for her murder.

HOUSE ARGUMENT OPENS AID DEBATE

mit munitions to go to belligerents on a "cash and carry" basis, advocates and opponents took to the radio last night to give a foretaste of the formal debates to come.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), who is organizing an opposition bloc in the senate, said during a radio forum that approval of the bill "means war — open and complete warfare."

Senator Lee (D-Okl.), taking the other side, asserted: "America has only one chance to escape total war and that chance is England. England is the only barrier between America and a baptism of blood. If that barrier breaks, America will have war and we will have it with odds heavily against us."

Declaring that the bill "definitely stamps the President as war-minded," Wheeler urged the American people to speak loud enough for the "warmongers to hear" by writing their congressmen and senators if "this headlong rush into dictatorship and war is to be either checked or stopped."

He added that if "the American people want a dictatorship—if they want a totalitarian form of government—and if they want war—this bill should be steam-rolled through congress—as is the wont of President Roosevelt."

He called the proposal the "New Deal's triple 'A' foreign policy — plough under every fourth American boy."

Senator Lee asserted that Hitler was at war with America today — economically, politically and morally — and that only one obstacle "prevents him from making war on us in a military sense, and that is England."

BUNFIELD GIVEN TERM IN OHIO PEN

Bunfield, who previously had served time in the Mansfield reformatory and the penitentiary as well, is expected to serve most of his one to 20-year stretch, court attaches said. He was sentenced to Mansfield on an auto theft charge and served part of a one to 20-year sentence in the penitentiary for breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling.

A secret indictment is still pending here against Bunfield, charging him with being an habitual criminal.

Another Pen Term

Another Columbiana county prisoner was sentenced to the penitentiary this morning following a hearing before Judge Sharp.

George Taylor, 24-year-old East Liverpool youth whose companion in an East Liverpool cafe robbery was slain, changed his plea of not guilty to a charge of robbery to one of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob, and was sentenced to serve from one to 15 years in the pen.

Taylor had been indicted on the robbery charge.

An East Liverpool patrolman shot and killed Taylor's pal when the pair fled after allegedly attempting to rob Eugene Dickey in the Manhattan cafe at East Liverpool.

Taylor, the court charged, had served time in the Mansfield reformatory for petty larceny.

THERE IS NO ECONOMY IN POOR VISION

People can economize on clothing. They can spare the household budget. The old car can be driven another season. Improvements on the property may be deferred. But glasses must be secured when they are needed.

There is no scale of value by which the worth of good vision may be reckoned. Like good health it is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of our daily duties and the full enjoyment of life itself. Such a priceless possession must be safeguarded whatever the cost.

Delay in securing glasses for weakening eyes is not economizing but the costliest kind of folly. You are not only experiencing discomfort, perhaps suffering and depriving yourself of your full efficiency, but every day the eyes are without assistance they need, their natural powers are retrograding the faster.

There is no economy in poor vision. If your eyes need attention, go today to a professional man of recognized ability for examination and advice.

Clark Gable and Hedy Lamarr, who appeared in "Boom Town," are co-starred in the comedy, "Comrade X," showing at the State tonight through Tuesday.

Comedy is a new vehicle for the Viennese beauty who, since her first American film, "Algiers," has only an indifferent score on drama. Gable's first picture, since the successful "Boom Town," gives him the role of a newspaperman, suspected of being a mysterious correspondent who manages to get through to his American editor stories on the Soviet that make the government want his scalp.

Felix Bressart, Oscar Homolka, Eve Arden and other well known players are seen in supporting roles. Miss Lamarr has the part of an ardent girl Communist spy whose father blackmails the newspaperman into taking to America.

Complications arising from the father's incautious remarks, and them in a Russian jail, condemned to death. The newspaperman's quick wit and lack of scruples finds a way out for the trio.

Bressart is the walrus-mustached little man who first won screen attention in "The Shop Around the Corner." In quick succession, came "Escape," "Bitter Sweet" and "Third Finger, Left Hand." A native Russian, he was a stage favorite on the continent before coming to America to play in "Bridal Suite."

WINTER WEATHER BRINGS SOOT, DIRT

Paris Cleaners Big Help In Preserving Home Cleanliness

There are few times during the year, probably, when the woman of the house really appreciates the services of a modern, thoroughly experienced dry cleaner as much as she does at the present.

Winter weather, arriving the first of the year, is here definitely, after a late start. There ensued a period of "forced firing" in the furnace room in the basement, and this is still under way.

Smoke has billowed from chimneys for many days and will continue to do so for many more days before it's warm enough to think of spring.

Regardless of how tight the home is, it is difficult to keep out soot and dust particles. Rugs, curtains and drapes suffer as a result and they must be given constant attention so they will not be damaged permanently.

Clothing becomes grimy and soiled. Cutting grit becomes embedded in the fabric. There is little, if anything, to be done about it, except to call in the cleaner. And this is the most judicious thing that can be done.

Frequent cleaning restores and revives the garment. As a result, it is given more life and money spent in cleaning really is returned. The Paris is equipped to handle any type of work, and it stands back of every job.

SHOWER EQUIPMENT EASY TO INSTALL

Convenience promotes health and enjoyment. Shower equipment can be permanently fitted to any built-in tub and installed by an experienced plumber like J. R. Stratton in a few minutes without changing the pipes or walls.

A shower cabinet, in the bathroom, in a little used closet or hall end, will speed up family routine.

If the medicine cabinet is an old-fashioned wooden one that sprawls along the wall, have your master plumber install a smart chromium-plated cabinet, either rectangular or oval, with integral indirect lighting, and plenty of space inside for bathroom accessories. This will make any bathroom perk up and look modern.

In addition to these suggestions, there are grabbers for safety's sake for both shower and tub baths, combination soap dish and grabbers, glass and toothbrush holders concealed behind chromium plated turn-doors, and many other useful bathroom accessories in the showroom of your master plumber.

CHRYSLER CITES PISTON CONTROL

Regulated Expansion Factor Adds To Long Life Of the Car

Controlled expansion of pistons is an important factor in the long life and smooth operation of the Chrysler "Spitfire" engine. In order to allow for the expansion and contraction due to changes in temperature, the diameter at right angles to the piston pin. When the piston heats with engine operation, this design results in its forming an almost perfect round. The small diameter expands and pulls in the large diameter like a spring. This prevents piston seizing.

Chrysler uses an aluminum alloy piston of U-slot design in order to make the engine flexible and provide quicker acceleration and deceleration. Obviously, a percentage of the horsepower developed by an engine must be used to turn over the engine itself. The smaller the percentage required for this purpose, the more there will be for the useful work of turning the wheels of the car. A lightweight piston therefore is an advantage in that it reduces the self-load of the engine.

Pistons used in Chrysler Spitfire engines are among the most carefully made parts of the car. They are heat-treated to secure external hardness. Super-finished for maximum smoothness and coated with pure tin for longer life. Soft tin in its pure form (as opposed to the more generally used alloys) is a very expensive and very useful metal. It possesses valuable lubricating qualities among other things. Thus Chrysler's tin-coated or "Stanodized" pistons safeguard the cylinder bores and pistons during the early life of the car and serve as a protection against wear as long as the engine is in use.

Heads of these Stanodized pistons are well ribbed to make them run cooler than other types. The Stanodized pistons are stronger and more rigid, even though they are lighter. Because they run cool, higher compression ratios are possible, which means that the most power is extracted from the fuel without "knock." The U-slot is an important factor in the control of piston expansion, maintaining the correct clearance between the piston and the cylinder wall at all operating temperatures.

AUTO BODY DENTS HURT CAR'S VALUE

Matt Klein's Service Will Keep Appearance Factor At Its Best

Through not fault of their own, many drivers in this district have put dents in auto bodies, fenders and running boards.

A stretch of slippery pavement, a bit of ice on the garage driveway or the faulty operation of another car in parking may have been responsible for the damage to the auto. Although minor dents seldom affect the operating efficiency of a car, they usually detract considerably from its appearance.

To permit these dents to become more unsightly and a permanent setback to a car's appearance is only to allow an appraiser to cut down trade-in value of the machine. In order to maintain the proper valuation of a car and to keep damage to an auto from becoming a safety hazard, the machine should be inspected and repaired by an expert in body work, wheel balancing and frame straightening.

Estimated Offered
Such expert service will be provided at Matt Klein's body shop at 813 Newgarden st.

Automobiles and light trucks wrecked so badly that one would think repairs were impossible are made to look like new machines at Matt Klein's body shop. A complete estimate on repair costs will be furnished by Matt Klein, proprietor of the shop, before the work is started. He handles each month a large number of repair jobs for insurance firms.

Turning out of a thoroughly satisfactory job is uppermost in the minds of Mr. Klein and his workmen. No expense has been spared in providing the shop with the best and most modern equipment used in the business. Work associated with the repair of an auto body, frame or wheel alignment can be handled by the shop.

Painting A Specialty
Included in this service is body straightening, welding, painting, upholstery repair, glass installation as well as frame straightening and wheel adjustments. Highest quality and best known varieties of glass and auto paints are used exclusively by Matt Klein's shop.

SPY COUNT UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Two Accused of Obtaining Information from U. S. Navy Files

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Supreme court upheld today the conviction of two men—one a citizen of Russia and the other a Russian-born naturalized American—on a charge of violating federal anti-spy legislation by obtaining information from United States naval intelligence files.

Justice Reed delivered the opinion, which applied to Hafis Salich, former Russian employed by naval intelligence at San Pedro, Calif., and Mikhail Nicholas Gorin, a Soviet citizen employed by a Los Angeles tourist company.

No dissent was announced. Justice Murphy, former attorney general, did not participate. Also today the Supreme court agreed to review a labor board contention that it could compel a company to hire men and give them back pay if the board believed employment had been denied because of union membership and activity.

The court also agreed to review other phases of the litigation contested by both the board and by the company.

PENNZOIL BALKS WINTER'S ATTACK

Special Pennzoil Winter Service Easily Available, Easy to Buy

Winter's invasion is here. Wise motorists will be ready.

This is not an idle reminder! All car manufacturers recommend that their models, both old and new, be especially serviced for cold weather driving. Their recommendations are included in the service given by Pennzoil Service Center at W. State st. and Jennings ave.

The complete Pennzoil service includes: Differential, Transmission, crankcase, front wheels, radiator, chassis and battery and spark plug servicing. Winter weather is hard on gears unless they are correctly lubricated. Pennzoil Service Center drains out the worn lubricant and refills with the recommended grade of Pennzoil gear lubricant, Hypoid lubricant.

Flush Out Crankcase

To make shifting easy in cold weather as well as to protect the transmission gears, they drain and flush out the worn lubricant and refill with winter grade products.

The crankcase will be drained and flushed out with special flushing oil and refilled with the proper Pennzoil grade. This is extra important, cold weather will cause some oils to become so thick that they do not lubricate and many parts of the motor can become damaged to an extent that replacement is the only way out. Winter grade Pennzoil is de-waxed and de-jellied, it flows freely on cold days, making starting easier and of most importance does properly lubricate.

Front wheel failures often lead to serious accidents. The Pennzoil service includes the removal of the old lubricant, repacking with fresh and the inspection of the bearings.

The radiator should be flushed out to remove the rust and sludge, and anti-freeze added.

Modern Equipment
Modern pressure equipment is used in lubricating the chassis and special manufacturers' charts are followed, this method results in better work than trusting to the knowledge and memory of any operator. Every bearing is given the exact type of lubricant the engineer intended.

Batteries are tested and water added when necessary and the spark plugs are cleaned and adjusted. Dirty plugs cause the motor to use more fuel and often cause hard starting and other troubles.

Tires, lights and the many other courtesy services are included in the winter Pennzoil Service now being given at a very special price at the State and Jennings station.

Record Sale Of '41 Cars Responsible For Bargain

For many Salemites who want to start 1941 with better transportation at a low initial cost, the used car department of the E. L. Grate Motor Co., on S. Ellsworth ave. will be an ideal spot to visit.

Achievement of the E. L. Grate Motor Co. in selling hundreds of used cars and trucks each year has brought the concern county-wide attention. But the attention in which the firm is most interested is that of prospective buyers of outstanding car values.

Earl Grate, head of the concern, said today that in no time in recent months has its used car department had such an impressive display of good autos. Sale of an increased number of new Ford and Mercury cars has brought to the used car department many bargains.

It is a policy of the company to give sincerely honest treatment for all customers and a determination to treat everyone so that he or she will come back for purchase of their next car.

Buyers Come Back

Significantly, the company reports that since its organization 60 per cent of its sales of new and used cars were to former buyers. Thus, the salesmen is familiar with both the new 1941 models and the auto which has been taken as trade-in. But before a used car is placed in the used car department and show rooms it is given a careful reconditioning.

Reconditioning receives the strongest emphasis from the company before a price tag is placed on the car. This check-up and improvement include attention to mechanical repair and adjustment, bettering of appearance and the offering of a more pleasing car.

Complete Check Made

Motor analyzers used by experts in the Grate garage detect any trouble except excessive use of oil is made by actual road tests. Many reconditioned cars have motor heads removed, valves ground and new rings installed.

Batteries are tested, spark plugs are replaced, brakes adjusted and the clutch carefully inspected on all used cars. Lubrication work is done thoroughly on all new and reconditioned autos. This service to the motoring public also attracts many customers to the E. L. Grate garage.

Salem Varsity Trounced By Rayen, 43-24; Reserves Win Sixth.

QUAKERS' ATTACK COLLAPSES AFTER 17-17 TIE AT HALF

Finamore Defeats Locals Almost Single-Handed In 2nd Half Drive

After jumping into an 8-3 first quarter lead over the highly touted Youngstown Rayen cagers and tying them 17-17 at the half, the Salem Quakers' attack fell completely apart in the last two periods and they went down to a 43 to 24 defeat Saturday night at Youngstown.

The Salem Reserves' performance was exactly the opposite, however. The local lads were deadlocked at 16-16 with the Rayen subs at halftime but turned on the heat in the second half to hang up their sixth victory, 39 to 27.

Use Zone Defense
The Red and Black varsity, using a zone defense for the time, showed promise of springing an upset in the early stages of the contest. A new starting combination of Guappone, Baillie, Cozad, McGaffie, and Vello worked smoothly in the opening quarter to chalk up four field goals while they held the opposition to three free throws.

The Rayen 2-1-2 zone defense was no obstacle for the Quakers as they were hitting the hoop from near mid-floor while their opponents missed shot after shot from the same distance.

The Salem passers held the lead until late in the second period when the Steel City boys rallied to tie the count at 17-17.

As the second half got under way, Finamore, speedy Rayen forward, stole the show as he tallied 17 of his team's 21 points in these last two stanzas by practically beat the locals single-handed.

The Turning Point
The third quarter was the turning point of the contest. Rayen chalked up 13 markers, 10 of which were Finamore's, while Baillie's free throw was the only Salem score. The Red and Black offense was completely stalled, as Rayen shifted into a 3-2 zone defense. The Quakers were continually held at bay near mid-floor while Rayen's fast-breaking attack took advantage of poor Salem passes to chalk up point after point.

The locals tallied their only two field goals of the last half in the fourth period while Finamore and company continued to roll on.

Ray McGaffie again led the Salem scoring with six points.

To look at the brighter side of the picture, the undefeated Quaker reserves continued to display a good brand of basketball in chalking up their sixth straight win.

The locals trailed 9-7 at the end of the first quarter but tied the count at the half and swamped their opponents in the last two periods.

The Salem scoring was pretty well divided, Bob Scullion heading the list with nine tallies and Bob Buckman next with eight.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 — Week's wash: The football Dodgers are denying Larry MacPhail has 10 per cent slice of the cub.

They're organizing a drive to have bookmaking legalized when and if racing returns to New Orleans.

Cuts are the first big league team out with a 1941 player roster — a beaming Jimmy Wilson is featured on the cover.

Reasons and Reasons
The Ohio High School Football Coaches' association is 100 per cent behind Paul Brown for the Ohio State job.

for one thing, Paul is a fine fellow and a fine coach (his Massillon teams have lost only one game in the last 60).

for another, some of the other boys wouldn't mind a winning a state championship once in a while.

Brown conferred with Buckeye officials on the campus again Saturday.

Quick Look-A-round
At last! Here's a guy who's smart enough to quit while he's on top. Eddie Leishman, who piloted Twin Falls, Idaho, and Spokane, Wash., to pennants in his first two years as a manager, is retiring.

Virginia Lee Graham, 12, plays second base for the boys' team of a Wyoming, Ill., grade school and is a 300 hitter. Also, she is a regular on the boys' basketball team.

Laff-off-of-the-week: Axel Hoffman saying Max Baer won't fight Joe Louis again until Joe regains his reputation and gets hot again. Nuts.

Today's Guest Star
Lynn C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Bert Bell is still shopping for a Philadelphia Eagle coach with a high-sounding name and when they get him, let him bring his football team along."

A Few On The House
When Lou Ambers begins his campaign as a welterweight against Eddie Connelly at Barre, Vt. next week, the third man in the ring will be Lou's old idol, Tony Canzoneri.

Paul Warner is finding the market for 38-year-old players a bit on the sluggish side.

The cards are $350,000 richer because of Branch Rickey's high pressure sales talks in 1940.

Advertising Dept.
While Madison Square Garden continues to seek talent for its "honest wrestling" shows, Mr. Bob Harron, Columbia drum beater, is inviting the addicts to drop around and get warmed up for the noble experiment by watching the Lion grapplers.

(This ad is paid for by the "friends of honest wrestling" — all seven of them.)

Public Notice
The Patrick Edward Comiskey Rooting and Tooting association has disbanded.

Comiskey—Battered—Hangs On

Pat Comiskey's battered and puffy face shows why he lost the ten-round bout on a decision to Lou Nova in New York. Nova's constant hammering at Comiskey's face had the hapless New Jersey heavyweight out on his feet at the end of the fight.

PLANE-BUILDING MAKES PROGRESS

American Aviation Keeps Step With Developments Of War Nations

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH,
Associated Press Science Writer.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. — The national advisory committee for aeronautics assured the government today that American aviation was keeping up with plane development in the warring nations.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and chairman of the committee, said in a statement to President Roosevelt that greatly increased research facilities were being constructed at Langley field, Va.;
Moffett field, Calif., and at Cleveland for "a definite acceleration of progress in improving aircraft performance."

"One of the essential requisites for retaining leadership in the technical development of aircraft is more and more research," he said.
The committee is conducting studies designed to add to the speed, maneuverability, load-carrying capacity, range, safety and economy of American planes.

"Several of these investigations already definitely promise large advances," it said in its annual report.
A new type of cylinder "finning," for example, by carrying heat away rapidly from the cylinder wall triples the horsepower of an engine.
Thus, the present largest air-cooled engine can be made to develop 6,000 horsepower instead of 2,000.

With four such engines mounted in a new super-bomber so large that a man could walk upright within the wings it would be possible to fly without difficulty to central Europe with a load of bombs, drop them and return non-stop.

With such power it also would be possible, experts agree, to increase the "wing loading" of a bomber sufficient to make it almost impenetrable to anti-aircraft and machine gun fire.

PAINEVILLE, Jan. 13.—A 70-year-old farm hand injured himself fatally while chopping wood near here. Sheriff James Maloney said John Paldie died to death from an axe wound in his foot.
